PPH Spring Workshop: From Big Data to Equitable Health

May 2, 2023

9:30 am – 5:00 pm

Icahn Lab Room 101

Registration is free but required for breakfast & lunch.

Scan for registration & schedule

Join us for the first Princeton Precision Health (PPH) workshop on interdisciplinary, data-driven approaches for precision medicine to work toward our goal of enabling more responsive, equitable, and precisely-targeted healthcare.

Keynotes

- Matthias Kretzler, M.D., Warner-Lambert/Parke-Davis Professor, Internal Medicine, University of Michigan
- Sridhar Venkatapuram, Deputy Director, Global Health, Director of Global Health Education and Training, King's College London.

Panel Discussion

- Ian Peebles, Harold T. Shapiro Postdoctoral Research Associate in Bioethics at the Center for Human Values at Princeton University.
- David Kinney, Postdoctoral Research Associate in Cognitive Science of Values, at the Center for Human Values at Princeton University.
- Emily Foster-Hanson, Postdoctoral Research Associate in Cognitive Science of Values at Princeton University (Current); Assistant Professor of Psychology at Swarthmore College (Fall 2023).

Talks

- Olga Troyanskaya, Director, PPH, Professor of Computer Science and the Lewis-Sigler Institute for Integrative Genomics, Princeton University.
- Mona Singh, Wang Family Professor in Computer Science. Professor of Computer Science and the Lewis-Sigler Institute for Integrative Genomics, Princeton University.
- Coleen Murphy, James A. Elkins Jr. Professor in the Life Sciences. Professor of Molecular Biology and the Lewis-Sigler Institute for Integrative Genomics, Director of the Paul Glenn Laboratories for Aging Research at Princeton University.